

IN THE UNITED STATES PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICEIn the Claims.

sub B1 7
As 5
1. (Amended) An integrated circuit device, comprising:

a programmable portion comprising a plurality of circuits that may be configured by a user of the integrated circuit device; and at least one communication portion comprising at least one circuit block manufactured to perform a predetermined data communication function including converting received first data values into second data values.

10